

The Progress of Imperialism.

Administration already so rotten, so vile, and so infamous that to mention it was but to inhale an atmosphere of guilt and crime at once revolting and overwhelming; but it remained for Congress, under the terrifying lash of the party whip in the hands of Polak and Frelinghuysen, to add one more to its long list of iniquities by the passage of the bill which enables the Government to snitch off to Washington be tried before an interested man any editor, writer, or publisher who in discharge of his duties as an impartial chronicler of passing events, may happen to criticise the acts of the Government or those directly interested with it in corrupt jobs, by which the people are swindled and Government's coffers enriched.

The bill was a direct blow at Charles A. Dana, the fearless editor of the New York Sun, whose manly, vigorous tion have won the highest commendation of the press and the people, and have brought down upon the heads of the marplots and tricksters who misrepresent the people in official positions a flood of censure and condemnation that will eventuate in the complete annihilation of all Rings, and drive unto merited obscurity those who by their acts and by their votes bring ruin and disgrace upon the nation.

and character of the men who have assumed to rule, and carry things with the high hand of an imperial and bloody despotism. It is a worthy production of a Boss Shephert and his co-conspirators against life and liberty. It is a weak and impotent effort to deny the rights of the press and the people to a frank criticism of the actions of their agents.

The Washington Ring, of which Grant is the head and front, have arrogated to themselves rights, privileges and prerogatives more befitting the rulers of an empire of grovelling, abject wretches, than the elected representatives of a so-called free people.

MRS. TILTON'S PORTRAIT.—A New York reporter gives a description of Mrs. Theodore Tilton, as follows: "I observed an exquisite portrait on canvas gracing the wall. Again and again my eyes fell upon it; something peculiarly charming and fascinating and tender hung about it. Musingly I thought the artist himself a most

...ator, or, if an actual, instead of a money subject, his brush must have been inspired. A most symmetrical face, intelligent and poetry predominant in expression; a wealth of silken brown hair; bright and soulful eyes of richset hazel; a mouth carved by the Godhead; lips full, warm and suggesting reddest richness of modest passion; a chin in will; a finely shaped neck and graceful shoulders, and a finely developed bust—all harmony, all beauty, all vigor and tenderness of young life and fascination. The watching eyes seemed to brighten when looked into; every smile so sweet as to thrill me; appeared on that face when I involuntarily fixed my gaze upon it.

gives the following account of an experience made by Mr. C. C. Baker, his farm a few miles below town, the land on which the trial was made is of the best of our Paradise plains lands. His field is a large one, and the land that was deeply plowed is an average in character of the whole. Twenty-four acres of it were measured, a heavy sulky plow was secured, and the large American horses hitched to it and the ground thoroughly plowed.

depth of eight or nine inches, thoroughly harrowed and sown to barley. The remainder of the field was plowed, and then treated in the usual manner, according to the custom of farmers in this locality—all of whom plow with all plows ganged together. From the twenty-four acres Mr. Baker harvested 1,070 bushels of barley, or in other words, 44½ bushels to the acre. In the remainder of the field his average was a little less than 15 bushels

GOOD ADVICE.—Pay your debts as soon as you get the money in your pocket. Go without what you don't need. Speak your mind when necessary. Hold your tongue when prudent. Don't speak to a friend in a seedy coat. If you can't lend a friend money, tell him so. If you don't want to, do the same. Cut acquaintances who lack principle. Bear with infirmities, but vice. Respect honesty, despise suplicity. Wear your old clothes till you can pay for new ones. Aim at comfort and propriety, not fashion, knowledge your ignorance, and don't pretend to knowledge you haven't.

Entertain your friends, but never beyond your means.

THE ONION AS FOOD.—The onion is one of the common and universally useful plants of life in Spain and Portugal.

Authority shows that according to analysis the dried onion contains from 25 to 30 percent of gluten, and ranks in this respect with the nutritive pea and grain. It is not merely a trifle that the wayfaring Spaniard has his onion with his humble crust of bread, as he sits by the refreshing fire; but it is because experience has proved that, like the cheese of the English laborer, it helps to sustain his strength, also, and adds beyond what

CHIME.—Col. Peter Donahue has rented to St. Patrick's Church, Mission street, San Francisco, a chime of bells. This is the first chime San Francisco has ever had and was tried the first time on the 4th. The programme included all the national airs, "Auld

"The Harp through Taras s," some sacred melodies and a society of music. The chime consists of 20 bells, the largest weighing 2,552 pounds, the smallest 200 pounds.—Co-
